Read this story.

One day during the holidays their uncle took Jan, Anna and Truida to the zoo. They spent hours looking at the different animals – birds, beasts, fish and snakes.

Jan liked to hear the lions roar. He watched the keeper feeding them. Truida liked the monkeys best.

“I could watch them all day,” she said. “They make me laugh. I should like to be a monkey and eat nuts.”

“Then the keeper will put you in a cage,” cried Jan, “and the people will laugh at you.”

They had a ride on the elephant. It was jolly. They shook and laughed so much that Truida nearly fell off.

After that they played on the swings for a while, and then went home taking happily.
